

Officially, geraniums are plants that have 422 different species and are used in gardening for their attractive flowers and their characteristic smell.

Although they may have other definitions depending on who you ask.

If you ask me, I will tell you that geraniums are the flowers and smells that make me feel my grandmother next to me because, since I was a child, she taught me how to plant, cultivate and care for them.

Which is yours ?